PEOPLE is all bright, shiny and ready to reopen

The PEOPLE charity shop in Radstock reopened on Monday this week, with a bright new look, thanks to refurbishment efforts by Bridges Electrical Engineers Ltd., based in Westfield, volunteers and trustees of the charity.

Mike Boulton, Chair of Radstock Town Council, attended the reopening, pictured with charity founder, Dr Jenny Clifford, Iatthew Bridges, Managing Director of Bridges Electrical Engineers and Rob Widdowson, trustee of PEOPLE.

Jenny said: "We are now welcoming customers to the new shop and we think the revisions are an asset to the town's regeneration. We hope our customers enjoy the new facilities."

Mike Boulton said: "PEOPLE take electrical goods and so I will be donating a number of light bulbs to the store, which I hope will be useful."

Westfield pupils are all logo winners

Vice-Chair of Westfield Parish Council and Chair of the Westfield Neighbourhood Plan Working Group, Cllr Ron Hopkins, was delighted to present certificates and prizes to eleven children of Westfield Primary School, who took part in a competition to design a logo for the Neighbourhood Plan.

Presenting the prizes at the Year 5 and 6 School Assembly, Cllr Hopkins described the Neighbourhood Plan and commended the children on their involvement in the community and the quality of their artwork.

"They were all so good, we could not pick a winner, so we are using them all," he said.

The logos will be displayed on all correspondence and documents which go out for the Neighbourhood Plan, which will span the next two to three years.
